Minh inaugurated, but Viet Cong rejects his peace offer

SAIGON (AP) — President Duong Van Minh was inaugurated today and proposed an immediate cease-fire and negotiations to end the war. But the Viet Cong rejected his overture and imposed a new list of demands on Saigon and Washington.

A Viet Cong statement demanded the abolishment of the Saigon administration and its army. Western analysts interpreted the statement as an attempt to wrest still more concessions out of the Minh government as fighting swirls to the capital's outskirts.

Meanwhile, at least one and possibly two planes bombed the Tan Son Nhut air base on the edge of the city, triggering panic in Saigon and forcing suspension of the evacuation of Americans and Vietnamese.

The most consistent reports said the bombing was carried out by a disgruntled South Vietnamese air force pilot, but they could not be confirmed. Other reports said it was done by North Vietnamese pilots flying South Vietnamese A37 fighter-bombers captured when the Communists took over South Vietnamese air bases in the northern and central parts of the country.

The bombing touched off a rash of anti-aircraft and small-arms fire in Saigon as people in the streets dashed for cover. Rumors raced through the city, but authorities and persons touring the streets agreed that Communist-led troops had not yet launched a ground assault on Saigon and that there was no street fighting.

Fifteen miles northeast of Saigon, North Vietnamese gunners blasted Bien Hoa with an artillery cannonade that left the city of 500,000 in flames. The imposing "any political tendency or personality on the South Vietnamese people."

"Those who are true patriots must put themselves on the side of the people," the statement's last paragraph read, "and fight energetically for the realization of these demands. The declaration of Mr. Duong Van Minh hardly conforms with the demands mentioned above."

Addressing the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government directly, the Saigon regime's third president in a week said in his inaugural speech:

population fled, strung out as far as the eye could see on the six-lane highway to Saigon.

A spokesman for the Viet Cong's delegation to the Joint Military Commission in Saigon rejected Minh's cease-fire proposal in a three-paragraph statement read to newsmen.

It called for "an end to the Saigon administration, a tool of American neocolonialism, and an end to the machinery of war and oppression against the population of South Vietnam."

"In this case," the Viet Cong said, "the most exalted aspirations of the population of South Vietnam will be realized in a more favorable manner under the Paris agreement on Vietnam."

Communist takeover inevitable

Viet policy a failure, says McCloskey

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a Communist takeover seemingly inevitable in Vietnam, a senior State Department spokesman says that the United States' Indochina policy was a failure.

The statement by Robert J. McCloskey, assistant secretary of state for congressional relations, went beyond judgments rendered by President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on the deteriorating situation of the Saigon government.

"... I think it is fair to say that so far as Indochina is concerned — Vietnam specifically — the policy that had been pursued for so many years by different administrations has failed," McCloskey said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

"It failed for a variety of reasons, but I do think that ... we can master these problems, that we have not suffered permanent setbacks in all of those other areas (of foreign policy), despite the denouement on Vietnam which we are now witnessing," he added.

McCloskey, who holds ambassadorial rank, said the United States generally fulfilled its commitments to South Vietnam, but could have helped the military situation by providing more arms aid.

In an assessment April 16, Ford said the United States' over-all foreign policy has been successful, but added: "Of course there have been some instances in which we have not achieved what we sought ... In a few instances ... I think we self-inflicted some problems which helped bring that unfortunate result."

Kissinger has characterized the impending takeover of South Vietnam as "this whole tragedy" and he says the debate over Vietnam is over.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Sunday that the collapse of South Vietnam represents a defeat for America because "it is the first time this country has ever been in the position of violating an agreement." He apparently was referring to reports that President Richard M. Nixon had promised the Saigon government to rush American aid if there was any massive violation of the Paris peace accords by the North Vietnamese.

Meanwhile, former Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford said Vietnam signals the failure of Kissinger's policies there and around the world.

Clifford, who helped shape U.S. policy in Vietnam during the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson, said in an interview that Ford should replace Kissinger.

Clifford said Kissinger is "wrong when he suggests that every part of the world has the same importance of some other part of the world."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Americans' attitude toward foreign policy is one of growing isolationism. "I hate to see it because I'm reminded precisely of the days of 1920 and 1930, when no one thought we were ever going to war again," Goldwater said on CBS' "Face the Nation."

"As a manifestation of good will from both sides, and to quickly end the soldiers' and people's sufferings, I propose that we stop immediately our reciprocal attacks."

"I hope you will accept this proposal and the negotiations will begin at once, after the government is set up, so that peace will be restored soon in our beloved country."

Minh indicated he would meet the Communist demand for an end to U.S. military aid and intervention in South Vietnam, saying: "Vis a vis our allies, the government of the Republic of Vietnam wants to maintain friendly relations and welcomes any help on the economic and humanitarian planes, without political conditions. This government is also ready to establish diplomatic relations with all countries, regardless of their ideologies, on a basis of equality, equal rights and without interference into one another's internal affairs."

The statement said the United States must strictly and completely apply Articles One, Four and Nine of the 1973 Paris agreement and must respect the fundamental rights of the South Vietnamese people.

Article One pledges the United States and all other countries to "respect the independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam as recognized by the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam."

Article Four declares "the United States will not continue its military involvement or intervene in the internal affairs of South Vietnam."

Article Nine states three basic principles for the South Vietnamese people's "right to self-determination," including a call for genuinely free and democratic general elections under international supervision and a ban against foreign countries

Ford says he will huddle with heads of regulatory agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said today he shortly will call what he termed an unprecedented meeting of the commissioners of the 10 major independent regulatory agencies.

Together with key members of Congress and the administration, Ford said, the commissioners "will discuss the imperative need to foster greater competition in the public interest and the equally imperative need to consider the inflationary effects of all proposed new regulations."

Ford announced the meeting to the 63rd annual convention of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. He also said he opposed creation of a federal consumer protection agency because "it would be unsound to add another layer of bureaucracy."

"I do not believe we need yet another federal bureaucracy in Washington with its attendant costs of $60 million over the next three years and additional federal employees," the President said.

terms of costs and added benefits gained," Ford said.

"For example, is it worth as much as $30 billion a year of consumers' dollars to reduce the level of occupational noise exposure by approximately five decibels?" the President asked.

"Have airbags been proven sufficiently cost-effective for us to require their installation in all cars at between $100 and $300 for each?" he asked.

"All too often, the federal government promulgates new rules and regulations which raise costs — and consumer prices at the same time — to achieve small or limited social benefits," Ford said.

airlines, utilities and banking.

He said many of these regulations are obsolete and levy a hidden tax on the American people by costing more than they provide in benefits.

The President said he has several bills pending or forthcoming which are intended to reform some rules of federal regulatory agencies.

He said that among them are:

- A proposal to remove federal price controls on new natural gas sold in interstate markets. He said the present "artificially low price" of gas has curtailed exploration and development and has forced some users to either curtail operations or depend more on oil.
- An act which would enable all financial institutions to offer a wider variety of lending services and to pay more competitive interest rates.
- Legislation which would end the so-called fair trade laws which permit states to allow manufacturers to dictate the price of their products.
- Comprehensive transportation program to change regulations governing railroads, airlines and trucking firms. The first of these bills would permit railroads to begin to adjust their rates within specified limits without interference from the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Ford definitely a candidate in '76, says Nessen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman said today that President Ford definitely plans to run for the presidency in 1976 and declared someone may be out to sabotage his campaign by planting false news stories.

Secretary Ron Nessen made the statement in response to an article in this week's edition of Newsweek magazine which says Ford told a meeting of political intimates that he would not seek election because of his wife's health and because he felt he could not spend the time and the money needed for the race.

His Constitution Hall audience interrupted his 30-minute talk 13 times, with the loudest applause coming when Ford said he had asked Congress to postpone action on legislation that would set up an agency for consumer advocacy.

The President said the government should not be stampeded into writing new federal regulations on such social issues as job safety, the environment and consumer protection.

"The question is not whether we want to do something about noise and safety — but whether making changes in our regulations would make sense in

"We must either revise proposed rules and regulations to lower their costs or we must not adopt them."

He said he does not seek to eliminate all regulations.

"Many are costly, but they are essential to preserve public health and safety," the President added.

Ford told the meeting there is an urgent need for an overhaul or elimination of many government business regulations, especially those governing competition in such industries as railroads, trucking,

Trial over Trident base is delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A legal dispute today delayed for 24-hours the start of a trial over environmentalists' efforts to block construction of a $500 million Trident submarine base near Puget Sound.

U.S. District Judge George Hart ordered the delay after attorney David Sive, representing a coalition of environmental organizations, said he needed the time to gather papers "critical to the proper trial of this action."

Sive specifically sought correspondence and plans regarding base construction and issuance of a statement detailing the environmental impact of the base.

Sive told Hart he earlier had been rebuffed in his efforts to obtain the correspondence, which is being held by the Seattle engineering firm of Durham, Anderson & Freed.

Sive said he was told the raw data was not indexed and that he should be more specific in his requests. The attorney added he thought it would take 30 minutes to review the files to see if the correspondence and plans he sought were contained in the files.

Hart ordered the firm to make the search.

The trial, described as pitting environmental considerations against national security, stems from the Navy's plans to base 10 new Trident submarines at the base. The boats would patrol the Pacific and each would carry 24 nuclear missiles.

The environmentalists contend that the Pentagon and the Navy illegally skirted the law in selecting the site and then wrote the required environmental impact statement to justify the selection.

They argue the Navy should have explored several alternative sites in the impact statement and examined other weapons systems.

The Navy argues that it has met the requirements of the law in writing the six-volume environmental statement. The Navy also asserts that national security requires that the new submarines be put into operation on schedule next year.

Construction is under way on 8,000 acres of an existing 30-year-old Navy base which has been an ammunition depot and Polaris missile facility in the past.

When complete, the base would bring 8,000 more people and an added payroll of $80 million annually into the comparatively rural area.

Environmental groups protest that the base would create congestion, pose the potential for nuclear accidents and result in giant piers jutting into Hood Canal near Bangor, Wash.

"The President wants it known that this story in Newsweek is untrue," Nessen said. "The President held no such meeting."

"The President definitely plans to run for election in 1976 and he intends to announce his candidacy in the near future," Nessen said.

Former White House press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst announced last August, shortly after Ford assumed office, that Ford would seek election to a full term in 1976.

White House spokesmen have said repeatedly since then that Ford plans to run in 1976.

Asked if the appearance of the story in Newsweek indicates that someone may be trying to sabotage the President's plans, Nessen replied:

"Some of his advisers feel that someone is trying to sabotage his campaign."

Nessen said that the advisers, whom he did not name, have not "zeroed in on any particular person or persons. But they have some suspicions."

Asked what evidence the advisers might have, he replied, "It's a suspicion. Whoever leaked that incorrect story is not a friend of Newsweek nor of the President."

Terrorists seize Israeli consulate in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Six terrorists armed with machine guns seized the Israeli consulate in downtown Johannesburg today, took nine hostages and sprayed the streets outside with gunfire wounding at least 40 persons and terrifying lunchtime crowds.

There were unconfirmed reports that there were five dead and another 10 wounded inside the consulate.

A doctor allowed into the consulate said the hostages included two children the terrorists were threatening to shoot.

The South African Press association said the terrorists were believed to be three Lebanese and three Japanese but there was no official confirmation.

In Beirut, Lebanon, some of the Palestinian guerrilla groups denied responsibility for the attack and others withheld comment.

After holding out through a series of blazing gun battles with police riflemen, the attackers threatened to blow up the office building occupied by the consulate unless the Israeli ambassador was produced.

Police said the ambassador, Izhac D. Unna, had been summoned from Cape Town and was en route by plane.

The terrorists also threatened to shoot a hostage every 15 minutes unless police withdrew from the front and back exits of the building, according to a physician who was admitted to the consulate to treat three wounded hostages.

The doctor was describing how the gunmen had wired hand grenades to the hostages when the walkie-talkie he was using was suddenly cut off.

A senior police official said the hostages held in the fifth-floor consulate offices near a modern shopping complex in the center of Johannesburg included four white women, three white men and two black men. But the doctor who entered said the gunmen also had in captivity two children whom they threatened to shoot if the police did not cease fire.

The unidentified gunmen fought a running battle with police marksmen who surrounded the building and returned fire as authorities tried to clear thousands of onlookers from the area.

Trooper's squad car vandalized

Tom Gower, 606 Crawford Ave., a trooper for the Illinois State Police, reported damage to a squad car parked in front of his home Friday night.

Gower told Dixon police, the windshield of the 1973 Dodge Polara squad car was smashed on the right side of the car and the tires on the left side had been slashed. Damage was also done to the right side of the hood and fender and the right red light. Authorities believe damage was made by a ballpeen hammer. Police are investigating the incident.

I'LL BET SHE SPEAKS SOFTLY, TOO! — Mrs. Laura Shell, of Marietta, Ga., an Atlanta suburb, displays a piece of hardwood flooring with which she clobbered a man over the head after he wrestled a service revolver from a Marietta policeman. Mrs. Shell, a 76-year-old widow, said, "that boy wilted like a ball of snow. I'm pretty strong." The man arrested was Robert McPhillips, 25. He was charged with aggravated assault and other charges. Mrs. Shell also managed to break her arm in the incident. (AP Wirephoto)

Priced out of energy business

By DON OAKLEY

It's no news to homeowners that the cost of the gas and electricity needed to run a home has zoomed upward in the past year or so, but they may not be aware how much.

According to a report recently released by a Senate subcommittee, utility bills nationwide increased nearly $10 billion last year, and the bulk of it—$6.5 billion—was in the form of "fuel adjustments" granted to utility companies to meet the higher prices they must pay.

This $6.5 billion was more than all the rate increases granted in the previous 25 years, and unlike ordinary rate changes, which must be approved by state utility commissions, fuel cost increases in most cases were tagged on automatically to utility bills without prior review.

It is unlikely that even the strongest supporter of the fuel adjustment clause, which was added to most utility rate schedules to relieve the problem of "regulatory lag" (the usually lengthy process of granting rate increases) ever envisioned such enormous hikes in a single year, said subcommittee chairman Sens. Lee Metcalf (D-Mont.) and Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine).

"Its unforeseen effect on rates in 1974 poses a serious problem of huge increases for which there is little or no public accountability," they warned in a joint statement.

Another undesirable effect of fuel adjustment clauses, they claim, is to remove most of the incentives for utilities to operate more efficiently and to control their costs. Because of this, proposals to require such clauses by all regulatory commissions, as well as to speed up ordinary rate increase requests, are in their opinion "simply not justified by the evidence we have today."

Considering electric utility costs alone, another report, this one based on a survey of major utilities in Europe, North America, Australia and South Africa by a New York consulting firm, National Utility Service, Inc., estimates that rates in the United States will soon be the highest in the world.

The survey reveals that during the 18 months preceding January, 1975, electric costs for this country's 15 largest utilities rose an average of 61.3 per cent. Larger increases were registered only by Belgium (85.4 per cent) and Italy (83.2 per cent), two countries which currently have unusually high rates of inflation.

The phenomenon is more than a matter of concern for the average consumer. "If the trend continues," says National Utility Service executive vice president Sarkis Soultanian, "the United States, which has historically been a cheap energy country, may soon lose its competitive edge in world markets."

He points out that the figures are for large industrial and commercial consumers. But he believes the increases are typical of the way rates are going today, and "it's time the power companies and the government agencies regulating them took more decisive action in redesigning rate schedules."

In the past, with cheap fuel, there was justification for sliding rates based on volume—the more energy you used, the less you paid per unit volume.

Yet though we are no longer in a cheap and abundant energy era, in this country we still tend to lump everybody in the same category rather than factor incentives into our rates for consumers who conserve or who use power during off-hours when it is less costly to the utility to deliver it.

Load factors and the time when energy is used must be given more prominent consideration in rate structures, Soultanian contends.

For sure, something needs to be done soon before Americans are priced out of heating and lighting their homes, or America itself is priced out of business.

Things Dixon Talked About

10 YEARS AGO

The main order of business today at the regular weekly session of the Dixon City Council was clearing up several fiscal year-end bookkeeping items. The 1964-65 fiscal year ends Friday and council members approved an ordinance transferring certain monies to accounts within several municipal funds.

Emotions and mental health will be the subject of the film-discussion program at 7 p.m. tonight in the auditorium of the academic school at the Dixon State School, as the institution film festival on mental health topics continues.

50 YEARS AGO

Announcement was made today of the letting of the contract for the new home of the City National Bank, work on which will be started Monday morning.

Permission has been given a representative of the Volunteers of America to hold their annual "Children's Heart tag day" in Dixon on Saturday, May 2.

The council last evening completed another very important chapter in the "city beautiful" program. The body voted unanimously to invite bids on the construction of a reinforced-concrete arch over the unsightly storm drain which skirts Highland Avenue.

Take it from Here

REFLECTIONS—What is it that affects about half of the U.S. population?

It affects more than five million workers; about 29 million Social Security beneficiaries; two million retired military and federal Civil Service employees; 600,000 postal workers, and 13 million food stamp recipients.

It is the Consumer Price Index computed by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The CPI serves as a guide for revising wages, salaries and other income payments to keep them in step with rising prices.

It compares what a "market basket" of goods and services for the current month against what it cost a month ago, a year ago and in 1967, the base year for the index.

The "market basket" is not a box of groceries. The basket price is based 25 per cent on food, 33 per cent on housing, 10 per cent on apparel, 13 per cent on transportation and 19 per cent on health and recreation.

It is not a true cost of living index because it does not include income and Social Security taxes paid.

The function of the CPI is to measure changes in the purchasing power of urban consumer's dollars.

The index was started after World War I and has become one of the most widely watched economic barometers.

A rise of 1 per cent in the CPI automatically increases payrolls by $1 billion.

The CPI also, as a by-product, reflects changes in consumer spending patterns.

During the 1960s, food prices rose by 2.7 per cent while services' costs were up by 4 per cent and fuel increased only one-third as much as food.

The index is apprehensively looked at by Congressmen and labor leaders who both fear it gives national administrations a way to under report price changes during inflation periods to make things look better for the economy.

There are those who contend the CPI yields more influence than it should because there are significant economic factors which it does not measure.

For instance, it is only influenced by the food industry by 25 per cent input but its computation affects the wages earned by workers in industrial plants which manufacture farm implements.

The 25 per cent input in the index comes from food but farmers' shares of the retail cost of food on which the index is influenced ranges from 18 to 63 per cent.

In other words, prices farmers are paid in no way affects the CPI to the extent the index affects the prices farmers pay for machinery and supplies.

With its failings it has been around, although revised from time to time, for about 55 years and has a large following.

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Arms Control and Disarmament Agency Director Fred C. Ikle points out that transferring peaceful nuclear technology "provides not only the means but also the cover" for nuclear weapons.

There are six nuclear powers: the U.S., U.S.S.R., Britain, France, Red China and India. Secretly, Israel may be among them.

Israel Premier Yitzhak Rabin has stated that Israel has the atom bomb "and would use it." Israel has received nuclear aid from the United States since 1955—for 20 years. And Israel has refused to sign the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, which more than 100 countries have signed.

In contrast, 12 Arab countries have signed the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and six of these have also ratified it.

Only two small nuclear reactors exist in the entire Arab world. One is in Baghdad, Iraq, the other in Cairo's outskirts. Egyptian President Anwar el-Sadat, in answer to Premier Rabin, stated that Egypt could somehow obtain the atom bomb "but would not use it first."

Admittedly, Israel prefers the lightning-type war. Defense Minister Shimon Peres is on record as insisting on this. So is Premier Rabin. And Israel's nuclear-weapons option presents the decision makers in Israel with a definite choice.

If Israel hits first with a pre-emptive strike or unleashes the horror of the atom bomb, what position would the United States take? What would be the position of the U.S.S.R.?

The United States has sold nuclear reactors to Brazil, Japan, Pakistan, South Korea, Spain and Taiwan and, when I was American Ambassador to Switzerland, I negotiated the sale of one to Switzerland after the "Atoms for Peace" conference in Geneva. It remains in operation near Zurich.

The International Atomic Energy Agency, in turn, is involved in negotiations for France to sell an additional new nuclear reprocessing plant to south Korea.

Iran has bought eight reactors and at this moment the United States alone is also negotiating reactor sales with Egypt and South Korea and still further sales to Israel.

Fissionable material, largely supplied by the United States and

Six nations have nuclear power

Canada, is present in many places and, behind the scenes, Mr. Ikle suspects that at least Argentina, Brazil, Libya, Taiwan, South Korea and Pakistan intend to make atom bombs, even though they do not yet have the capacity.

Additionally, West Germany—which does have the capacity—is obviously straining at the leash. So is Japan.

The French and West Germans in particular promote their nuclear power-plant sales without adequate precautions for storage and reprocessing of spent nuclear fuel. This spent fuel can be reprocessed into a kind of pure plutonium used to make the nuclear bomb.

Even here at home we have been lucky not to be the victims of a makeshift atom bomb—or its blackmail.

Our Atomic Energy Commission and the atomic industry cannot account for thousands of pounds of nuclear materials mailable into atomic bombs by skillful people possessing reasonably simple, widely available instructions.

Our General Accounting Office, Congress's investigative arm, officially states that "an informed, dedicated band of bomb makers can easily fashion an effective implosion explosion."

The makers would need only about 40 pounds of enriched U235 uranium or 12 pounds of plutonium.

Moreover, the GAO finds scattered throughout our nuclear plant network weak fences, inefficient patrols, too few automatic detecting systems, no plan should lethal material be stolen, etc. In fact, the GAO finds large loads of enriched uranium "subject to hijacking or other diversion attempts."

The Atomic Energy Commission, in turn, has unsuccessfully asked Congress for $87 million to hire more guards, install new alarms, get more fencing, get tamperproof shipping cases and develop means to track stolen nuclear material—handled in such a footloose way today.

The combination of Mr. Ikle's concern about the atom bomb potential in one country after another plus the total insecurity here in the United States is further proof that there always seems to be one more place at the Mad Hatter's Tea Party.

The world has a right to worry about the simplest and plainest thing on earth—the atom. Able Mr. Ikle is not talking through his bonnet.

People in the news

RESOLUTE BAY, Northwest Territories (AP) — Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, emerged from a hole in the thick ice of Resolute Bay, smiled and doffed a dripping black bowler to freezing newsmen.

The prince had just completed a half-hour dive in minus 28-degree weather, and his host, Dr. Joseph MacInnis, had stashed the hat and an umbrella on the seabed 30 feet below the ice as a surprise.

Earlier Saturday, as part of his tour of Canada, the prince donned a new parka and pants of hand-sewn caribou skins for a three-hour dog sled ride through the mountains of Ellesmere Island, the nation's northernmost point, about 800 miles from the North Pole.

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Anthony J. Hope, 34-year-old son of comedian Bob Hope, suffered slight injuries when fire struck his exclusive seaside home here. A fire department spokesman said Hope, an attorney and film producer, was alone when the fire broke out Sunday.

The cause of the blaze, which destroyed the $200,000 home, was undetermined. In July 1973 fire destroyed the elder Hope's $1.5 million hilltop home under construction in Palm Springs.

June or early July until September because of a conflict with a 35-nation summit meeting concluding the European security conference in July.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Ford attended a dinner party at the home of Clark MacGregor, former head of the Republican National Committee, along with several participants in a two-day weekend golf tournament at Burning Tree Country Club in nearby Maryland.

The President played his second round in the tournament Sunday after attending services with two Michigan friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Hekman, at St. John's Episcopal Church.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Susan Ford joined 17 Georgetown University students in a rocking chair marathon over the weekend to raise money for children of servicemen missing or killed in action.

The President's 17-year-old daughter forgot to rock as photographers crowded around to take pictures, but Washington Redskins running back Larry Brown rescued her by pushing her rocker into motion.

Joining the rockathon throughout the day Sunday were Art Buchwald, Eunice Kennedy Shriver, Lynda Johnson Robb and several members of Congress. The cast of the Broadway musical "Grease" also rocked — and rolled — providing dancing entertainment.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi says President Ford plans to visit India this fall despite speculation that the trip might be canceled because of India's criticism of the lifting of the U.S. embargo on arms shipments to Pakistan.

"We are told he will be coming and we have heard nothing to the contrary," she said Sunday.

... for and about women

THE 1975 OBSERVANCE of May Fellowship Day will be sponsored by the Dixon Area Church Women United Friday in the First United Methodist Church when a 12:15 p.m. luncheon will precede a program on this year's theme, "Open to Live Fully." Tickets for the luncheon may be obtained in advance from "key women" of each church involved, or they may be purchased at the church Friday. Photographed at a planning session for the annual event were (seated left to right) Miss Valerie Phillips, who will serve as moderator for a panel discussion on "Volunteers in Probation," and Mrs. Kenneth Gross, chairman of May Fellowship Day. Standing (left to right) are panel members, Mrs. F. F. Densmore and Mrs. Warren Walder. (Telegraph Photo)

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters to celebrate anniversary

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, a social cultural and service organization for women, plans to celebrate the 44th anniversary of its founding. Celebrations will take place in the 24 countries in which the organization's 250,000 members in 10,500 chapters exist. The organization is not connected with any school or college and is non-political and non-sectarian. The keynote of Beta Sigma Phi is friendship.

April 30th is the anniversary day and the week of April 27th to May 3rd has been proclaimed Beta Sigma Phi Week in many states and cities throughout the United States. Celebrations this year will also emphasize International Women's Year which is taking place throughout the world. Chapters with five different degrees meet the growing needs of various age groups. Members are active in small chapter groups and each chapter adapts the plans for social, civic, service and cultural activities to fit the interests of its members.

When Beta Sigma Phi events or civic endeavors are larger than one chapter can plan alone, all chapters in a city or area may combine their strength. There are state conventions each year which any member may attend. Internationally the chapters have created three special funds: The International Loan Fund, through which members help one another; the International Endowment Fund, through which vast sums have been donated to cancer research, cystic fibrosis and homes for underprivileged children; and the Exemplar Fund, which helps to support Literacy Village in India.

The Founders Day celebration for the four Dixon chapters will feature a 6:30 dinner-meeting Wednesday in the Nachusa House, when Mrs. Melvin Heckman will serve as chairman and toastmistress.

Other members participating will be Mrs. James Ferolo, Mrs. Larry Walley, Mrs. Dwight Mondlock, Mrs. Thomas Novotny and Mrs. George Bailey, and the message from the sorority president will be presented by Mrs. Olin Hall.

Outstanding members will be recognized, and the theme for the new year, "Let Heritage Ring," will be launched.

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority was founded in Abilene, Kan., by Walter W. Ross.

COPING Will television ads change?

By JOANNE KOCH
When I receive a report trumpeting an "ad industry upgrading of the portrayal of women," I think, "Wow! There'll be some changes made."

The women mopping floors in spotless houses and greeting neighborhood ladies who sniff for household odors will now be transformed into real people. The endless TV discussions of detergents, collar rings and grease spots will be no more. Women will be shown choosing whatever detergent is on sale or low in phosphates, and that will be it. No more, "My wife, I think I'll keep her" drivel.

But wait a minute. What I've got is simply a press release about a report done by the National Advertising Review Board. The five-member NARB Panel has come to the startling conclusion that "a cultural lag exists between the stereotyped way women are sometimes shown in advertising and the revolutionary changes that have taken place in society in recent years."

Any five housewives, secretaries or reasonably sophisticated second graders could have told them that. Is the NARB suggesting that advertising executives—some of the people most acutely attuned to trends and change—didn't know they were degrading the dignity of women by showing them as silly, dependent creatures who regard it their duty to keep spotless houses and never, never to be short-tempered with husbands or children?

I want you to know what the Advertising Review Board is recommending to advertisers, so you will be aware that J. Walter Thompson and the rest have been forewarned. But before that, please consider this quote buried in the release: "It is the unanimous conclusion of the Panel that any attempt to improve the situation will accomplish two important goals. First, it will provide a greater measure of fair treatment for women. Second, it will be an intelligent marketing decision."

You decide whether fairness to women is the primary goal of advertisers, or is the "intelligent marketing decision," i.e., the almighty buck, their prime mover. I intend to let advertisers know when I present a degrading commercial by informing them that I am not buying that product. I'll use these questions, which the NARB is passing on to its members, as my guidelines.

"1. Does the ad (commercial) picture both sexes as intelligent, physically able and attractive, or does it portray women as weak, silly and over-emotional?"

"2. Does the ad portray women in situations that tend to confirm the view that women are the property of men or are less important than men?"

"3. Is there double entendre in the ads, particularly about sex or women's bodies? (A good test case here will be Continental Airline's "We really move our tails for you" which has led to a 19 per cent increase in business. Continental may, of course tell us what the tail people think of when they see a beautiful stewardess singing the ditty is the golden tail of a DC7.)

"4. Does the ad reflect the fact that girls may aspire to careers in business and the professions?"

"5. Does the ad use belittling language—such as 'gal Friday,' or 'lady professor,' 'her kitchen,' 'his car'?"

I would like to think that advertisers receiving the NARB release or reading the full panel report will search their consciences and opt for fairness. I do, in fact, believe they will be fair—if it's profitable.

Miss Johnson, Mark Kime are married in Japan

MR. AND MRS. MARK KIME

Miss Dianna Lynn Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Johnson Sr., Rochelle, and Airman I.C. Mark Kime, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Kime, Ashton, were married recently by the Japanese Embassy Courts in Sapporo, Japan.

The bride reached Japan with her bridal costume, but was not allowed to wear it for the ceremony. Her husband has two and one-half years more to serve to complete his enlistment, and they are planning a church wedding in Rochelle during his next leave.

They were required to have marriage licenses from both the United States and Japan.

They spent their honeymoon in Tokyo, Japan, when hotel and entertainment expenses were paid by the Japanese Embassy.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Rochelle Township High School, and she left for Japan last October. Her husband graduated in 1973 from Ashton High School, and enlisted for four years in the Air Force, leaving Ashton in August of 1973.

The newlyweds are presently residing at the air base near Misawa, Japan.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — Faded and dull-looking jeans, shirts and bedspreads can be dyed easily or tie-dyed to make them look like new again. Follow the direction on the dye package. However, I would like to know how to keep a dyed article from fading when it is hand washed. Any suggestions? — R. K.

DEAR R. K. — Years ago when clothing etc., was dyed at home salt was added to set the dye. color. Salt is now added to the dye and some packages are so marked. When first dyed and wet, material should be a shade darker than desired when it is dry. Perhaps your garments were not adequately rinsed after dyeing. Rinsing must continue until the water runs clear. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those people who leave their television sets on while you are visiting with them and then you cannot hear yourself talk or think. How rude can one be? — MRS. L. H.

DEAR POLLY — I disagree with the companies who told you that the taste of pecans cannot be "freshened." About 25 years ago I read how to freshen their flavor. Pour boiling water over the nut meats and let stand five minutes. Drain water off and spread them on a heavy cloth to dry. Put in a frying basket and immerse in deep fat long enough to make them crisp. They can be salted or not, as preferred, and sealed in a fruit jar. — MRS. J. J.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. C. H.

will not have to worry about having a last year's taste from pecans if she stores them in her freezer. Our church group sells pecans and we find that is the best storage place for them year round and they always taste fresh. — JUNE.

DEAR POLLY — When jams or jellies turn to sugar I found it monotonous to keep setting them in hot water. I hit on something the family likes. We use them on hot cereals. The sugar dissolves immediately and the fruit flavor of jam or jelly gives a tasty change to the cereal. Do try it. — CATHERINE.

DEAR POLLY — My mother has a good idea for these days of high costs. When she is packing a box of things to send to my brother's family back east she uses paper napkins to fill in spaces. They are very nice for this. They are light in weight, can be compressed to almost any desired thickness, can be used so the postage being paid is on something useful and not just old scrap paper. — CRAIG.

DEAR READERS — Betty, my right-hand helper, was so impressed with this idea that she is going to use it when mailing things to her two sons at college. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — Before retiring my husband worked on a golf course and was out in all kinds of weather. He learned to rub his work shoes with petroleum jelly about once a week to "moisture-proof" them and keep his feet dry. — CURTY.

Guarantee better than guess

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Oswald: "If you could guess right all the time, you wouldn't have to do anything else well to be a winner. Experts do a lot of successful guessing, but when possible they try to substitute certainty for guesswork."

Jim: "I'm looking at the hand you are about to bring up. I suppose South won the first trick with the ten of hearts and led a diamond."

Oswald: "He certainly did but only after a lot of agonizing. When dummy's queen held the trick he relaxed, remarked, 'I sure played the right suit' and went happily about the business of winning game and rubber."

Jim: "South's guess had some merit. If he had to lead a spade or diamond, the diamond was correct. There was a 68 per cent chance that the suit would break 3-2. If it did, it wouldn't really matter who had which ace, since three tricks in diamonds would be enough to guarantee success of the three notrump contract."

Oswald: "However, there was no need for any guess at all. Instead of studying diamonds and spades South should

Attention! Prospective brides

Because of misunderstanding on wedding pictures, The Telegraph is asking prospective brides to arrange for good black-and-white wedding pictures for use with wedding stories.

Color photographs and black-and-white prints off a color negative are unsatisfactory for good newspaper reproduction.

Rather than be disappointed by having a picture rejected by the newspaper, we are advising brides to insist on a black-and-white picture shot with black-and-white film.

'1776' is ready at Dixon High

As the pleasant odor of grease paint mingles with the warming air of spring, finishing touches are added to Dixon High School's presentation of the musical "1776."

The production will be staged in the DHS auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., under the direction of James Wiltz and DeVoe Manning.

Tickets are on sale now, from 7:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on all school days, at $2 for adults and $1.50 for students.

The musical takes place in the long, hot and eventful summer of 1776. The Continental Congress meeting in Philadelphia includes distinguished men throughout the colonies. Over the voices of debate rings out the voice of John Adams of Massachusetts as he tries to convince the members of the Congress to "Vote Yes! Vote for Independence!"

The congressmen find themselves braving the humidity and the flies of the stuffy chambers in Philadelphia. There are countless votes and arguments climaxing to the point where the Declaration of Independence is passed and signed by the Congress.

Heading the cast for this year's musical is Jim Edwards, who will play the part of John Adams. Jeff Mondlock follows as Ben Franklin; Pete Moore as John Rutledge; Kent Weakley as Dickinson; Ken Baker as Richard Henry Low; and Wayne Badger as Thomas Jefferson.

Melody Nusbaum will portray Abigail Adams, and Laura Snell as Martha Jefferson on opening night. For the last two nights Barb Love will play the part of Martha, while Petra Rusev will be Abigail.

Other parts in the musical include Livingston, played by Cyril Long; Sherman Butler by Dave Lovett; Hopkins by Ed Jones; Hancock by Greg Weigle; Thomson by Chris Mullery; Witherspoon by Jeff Bollman; Chase by Joe Brady; McKean by Scott Masters; Rodney by Ted Trulock; Greg Spees as Bartlett; Dennis Schaffer as Read; Steve Rittman as Hewes; Jim French as Morris; Jamie Anderson as Hall; Dale Hohm as Wilson; Jim Bark as the courier; Kevin Brown as McNair; Kurt Baker as the painter; and John Kemp as Leather Apron.

Ogle County state's attorney seeks grant

OREGON — Ogle County State's Atty. Peter J. Woods has filed an application with the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission to fund a deferred prosecution project. If approved by ILEC, the program would be put into operation July 30.

Under the direction of Woods, a coordinator would be hired to set up a screening process for prospective individuals charged with certain first offense misdemeanors and felonies.

Up to $24,259 is available through the grant.

A person placed on the deferred prosecution program would sign a contract with the state's attorney's office for a prescribed time during which he must maintain a clear record. Providing all the requirements are met, the person would be freed of any criminal prosecution, however a record would be made of the arrest.

Woods said the deferred prosecution program would greatly alleviate present court schedules and reduce the number of pending cases.

The state's attorney's office now has 380 felony and misdemeanor cases pending.

Woods stressed that serious criminal charges would not be passed off to the program and prosecution in those cases would be to the fullest extent prescribed by law.

CHARLOTTE REID

He is a lifetime member of Calvary Lutheran Church north of Lee and has been active in many capacities in the church. Hill is a man dedicated to the conservation of soil and water and has been active in the formation of the Rochelle Wildlife Conservation Club, serving on the Lake Advisory Committee.

In 1955 Hill and his brothers brought the term "minimum tillage" to Ogle County in the development of the first wheel-track planting system for corn in this area. Married, he has five children, from college age to the first grade.

Charlotte Reid, former congresswoman and now a commissioner on the Federal Communications Commission, was the main speaker.

Commissioner Reid is only the second woman to have ever held this position.

In her speech, she touched on the various duties of the FCC, and told her audience that the FCC does not censor programming, but tries instead to suggest where changes should be made.

Mrs. Reid felt that prime time shows should have more educational content and that more use should be made of children's programs. In the near future, she said, "warnings will be given at the beginning of a program suggesting parental guidance in the viewing."

Conservation Conference planned at Lorado Taft

Conservation Conference Two, sponsored by the Illinois Department of Conservation, will convene May 9 to 11 at the Northern Illinois University Lorado Taft Field Campus.

"Conservation Conference Two will begin where Conservation Conference One left off," Anthony T. Dean, director of the conference, said.

The first conference in October, 1974 focused on the role of the state Department of Conservation as a natural resource agency, he said. "This time, we will take a harder look at some other agencies and the roles they play," Dean said. The main goal of conference is to create an effective dialogue among various resource interests to help define a common ground as well as to point out differences, he said.

The three-day conference will include at least one general session each day with the exception of Friday evening's opening film presentation. Two general sessions, one each in the morning and afternoon, will be held Saturday.

A pair of concurrent seminars are scheduled for both

Saturday morning and afternoon with all four sessions repeated to allow those attending the conferences and opportunity to participate in each of the seminars.

"The Future of the Shawnee National Forest" and "Managing Rivers and Streams" scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday will be repeated at 1:15 p.m. Two seminars, scheduled for 4 p.m., and repeated at 5 p.m. are "Environmental Advocacy: A Case Study" and "Status of Land Use Programming for Illinois."

The evenings will be devoted to social gatherings such as campfire get-togethers at Lowden State Park adjacent to the Lorado Taft campus.

"Although our program is heavily structured, we are flexible," Dean said. "If an individual or group wishes to propose a constructive change in our program, any general session of the conference can consider such a proposal," Dean said.

Only through a unity of purpose such as that provided by the conservation conference "can we make safe the future of conservation in Illinois," Dean said.

Students may register for a half unit of graduate credit or two semester hours of undergraduate credit at a tuition rate of $44, or they may select one unit of graduate credit or four semester hours of undergraduate credit at a tuition rate of $88.

Scout show in Oregon May 10

The Ninth Annual Sinsissippi District Scout Show will be held at the Ogle County Fairgrounds in Oregon on May 10. Show hours will be 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. and the price of tickets is $1.

Scout show chairman, Ray Farrey, stated that 24 units have reserved space for this year's show. On the show committee assisting Ray this year are: John Berger, Norm Collins, Howard Fox, Ralph Young, all of Oregon, Roy Vermillion of Dixon and Bruce True of Mt. Morris.

Explorer, Boy Scout, and Cub Scout units throughout Sinsissippi District (Lee and Ogle County) are putting the finishing touches on their particular displays.

The theme for the Scout Show is "Expo-75." This year's show will feature outside demonstrations along with booth displays depicting Scout Skills in action.

Scouts have been selling tickets in advance and part of the proceeds from the sale of tickets will go to the scout unit to be used for scout activities, equipment, and program materials. Scouts will also qualify for prizes for selling tickets. Among the prizes are cook kits, flashlights and other scout equipment.

This year there is a "special event," which features a district Pinewood Derby that will run during the afternoon.

An awards presentation will climax the day's activity. Both the unit displays and the participating scouts figure in the judging and the competition is keen for the blue ribbons that will be presented. Trophies will also be presented to winners of the Pinewood Derby.

Dog obedience classes scheduled at Sauk Valley

A Dog Obedience class, which will be taught on Tuesday for an eight-week period, beginning May 6, is being offered by the office of community services at Sauk Valley College.

One of a series of pictures of noted Americans and events in our history which will be printed in The Telegraph in recognition of the United State's Bicentennial in cooperation with the John Hancock Insurance Co.

Ulysses Simpson Grant, 18th President of the United States was born in Point Pleasant, Ohio, April 27, 1822, and when the Civil War broke out, he was clerking in his father's hardware store in Galena. Grant organized and drilled a company of men in Galena and then went to work for the Illinois adjutant general in Springfield. In March 1864, President Abraham Lincoln placed him in command of all Union Armies. Four years later, a war hero, he was elected President and was the people's choice four years later for a second term. Grant died in Galena July 23, 1885. The picture, above, of Gen. Grant is a reproduction of an original painting by Harold Von Schmidt.

Trees planted in Rochelle Arbor Day ceremonies

ROCHELLE—Arbor Day ceremonies were held Friday at Rochelle's Cooper Park, with three newly planted trees being dedicated to Mrs. Robert (Ruth) Flanagan, former Park District secretary; Mrs. Katie Gregory, mother of former Park District Board President Trudy Sexton, and for Mrs. Hazel Carpenter, mother of Mrs. Robert Anderson.

In dedicating the trees to the three women, Ed Rice, president of the Flagg-Rochelle Park District, told those attending, "these women loved the beauty of life . . . and we feel it appropriate to commemorate their memory with these living memorials."

Attending the dedication and Arbor Day ceremonies were students from St. Paul's Lutheran School and also from the Tilton School.

Mayor Bill Cipolla led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance and in the singing of "God Bless America."

Deer permits on lottery basis

SPRINGFIELD—A change in the method of issuing deer hunting permits is being made by the state Department of Conservation.

Director Anthony T. Dean, in announcing the change, said in the past, permit applications have been processed on a first-come, first-served basis.

"This proved to be a good system until last year," he explained, "when we received more requests for permits than we could issue. As a result, more than 20,000 hunters were turned away because the quotas in the counties they wished to hunt were filled."

Dean went on to say a lottery-type drawing will be held to determine who will receive permits this year in the 97 counties and two refuge areas open to deer hunting.

Although no additional permits will be issued, Dean said it will give equal opportunity to all who submit applications.

Applications will be accepted by the permit office May 5 through 13. The drawing will be May 14.

Hunters are allowed one shotgun permit and one archery permit. Persons submitting more than one shotgun application will forfeit their fee plus the permit.

No more than six applications may be sent in one envelope, and applications received prior to May 5 will be returned to the sender.

The 1975 deer season will be Nov. 21, 22 and 23, and Dec. 12, 13 and 14.

Applications should include the hunter's name, address, county of residence, personal description (age, height, weight), first and second choice of county or refuge, and a check or money order for $5, and be sent to: Department of Conservation, Deer Permit, 613 State Office Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Sunflower and pumpkin contests are scheduled

A Big Pumpkin and a Giant Sunflower contests will be conducted for all Lee County persons between the ages of 6 and 16, sponsored by the Dixon Men's Garden Club.

A trophy will be awarded in each contest for first prize and the second place winners will receive $5 and third place awards of $3 will be given.

Seeds for the two contests will be provided from the national offices of the Men's Garden Clubs of America and may be obtained at no cost from Leroy C. Glessner, 515 E. Second St., and 4-H club members may get them by attending the annual garden clinic at the 4-H Federation Thursday, at which time more details will be given concerning the contests.

Returned from Ohio

OREGON—Lowell W. Young, 29, was returned Sunday from Continental, Ohio, following his arrest there by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. Young is named in an Ogle County warrant for revocation of probation. He was being held in Ogle County jail under $75,000 bond set by Associate Judge Alan Cargerman.

Young was placed on probation on a conviction for burglary. The charge stemmed from a break-in at the George McWethy resident, Rt. 3, Dixon, on April 30, 1971, where an antique vase and other items were taken.

The petition to revoke probation was filed after Young failed to report to the probation office.

Two hurt in traffic mishap

The Polo ambulance was called to the scene of a pickup truck and automobile accident at Wilson Mill Road and the Milledgeville Blacktop about 7:30 a.m. Saturday. Transported to Dixon KSB Hospital was the driver of the pickup, Clayton Lenheart, 70, Rt. 1, Polo, and the driver of the car, Mrs. Joyce Murphy, 35, Milledgeville. Mrs. Murphy was listed in good condition at the hospital and Lenheart was released following treatment. Illinois State Police investigated the accident and it was believed the car hit the truck, causing it to roll over and land on its top. (Telegraph Photo)

Evolution of corporate meetings

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Little more than a decade ago the annual meeting was a festive occasion, one of the corporate rites of spring: homecoming, the annual get-together for sandwiches, refreshments and conversation.

U.S. Steel erected beautifully striped canopies on the lawn of an engineering school and, unless you were informed or up close, you just couldn't tell the annual meeting from the graduation exercise.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the biggest stockholder family of all, rented an armory and served box lunches for its guests — strike that, its common stock owners.

Controversy, quite understandably, seldom intruded into the atmosphere of such excellent assemblages. It just wasn't nice; it was poor etiquette.

It was all pro forma anyway, tightly scheduled and programmed. All the officers involved had their reports ready. All the real business had already been enacted. Management always had the votes to do what it wished.

The hypocrisy and cost and nuisance of it all began getting to some executives, and there developed a tendency to move the annual meeting out of the big cities into some outlying, less-populated, harder-to-reach areas.

Sometimes this was done in order to meet some of the stockholders who couldn't make it to the home city. After all, shareholders were spread about the nation, not concentrated in the headquarters city.

Quite often, too, the reason was to escape stockholders, who were tending to become a bit more critical.

Some companies even toyed with the notion of giving up the annual meeting, and to their surprise they found that under the incorporation rules of some states you didn't need an annual get-together. But the New York Stock Exchange insisted on a continuance of the practice.

The annual meeting was changing. Corporate democracy was being sold to the American people and the number of shareholders was rising swiftly, from about 13 million at the beginning of the '60s to 30 million at the close of the decade.

The atmosphere wasn't conducive to the old way of doing things. How can you serve box lunches to so many people? How can you afford them?

Stockholders answered those questions to some degree. They didn't attend. So long as management made money for them they didn't care. And you may recall that the '60s were very profitable until the decade waned.

A new group began making a nuisance of itself. The social do-gooder, the environmentalists and various activists began prodding the corporation to give an account of itself as a resident and citizen.

Even more was being asked. Many people who admired the corporate way of getting things done were appalled at how little was being done except to make money. They wanted corporations to take on added duties.

Now we have reached another stage. Scattered throughout the stockholder population there is a growing feeling that managers must be made more accountable. A feeling grows that there is a great management ripoff.

That feeling was expressed this week at the Chrysler Corp. annual meeting, and earlier at the Celanese meeting. Why, it was asked, does the good fortune of the executive continue while that of the stockholder and employee deteriorates?

Why do some corporate officers own very few shares of their company's stock? Why do others earn huge salaries and collect bonuses — performance bonuses they are sometimes called — even though the company's earnings are down? Why are some officers permitted to write contracts continuing their incomes, as consultants, after they retire? Why are officers granted personal loans?

This is the atmosphere of the annual meeting, circa 1975. How long ago the old days seem.

Do you know what EER is?

EER really stands for Energy Efficiency Ratio. And if you're buying an air conditioner this summer, you should know about it.

You may not realize this, but some air conditioners use a lot more electricity than others to cool the same amount of space. And in the summer, when the heat gets unbearable and millions of people turn on their air conditioners to find relief, this can amount to a significant waste of electricity.

On a normal summer day, as the graph above shows, Commonwealth Edison may have to deliver three to four million kilowatts more than on an average winter day. To meet this summer demand, extra amounts of fuel must be burned. By making sure you buy the kind of air conditioner that gives the same cooling with less electricity, you can save money and save us all critically needed fuel. The thing to check is known as the EER, an engineer's term which stands for Energy Efficiency Ratio. And there's information on every air conditioner that lets you figure it out.

You don't have to be an engineer to find the EER. All the information you need to buy an efficient air conditioner can be found on the metal plate attached to the unit.

MODEL NUMBER ACR20B74F
VOLTS	CYCLE	PHASE
115	60	1
COOLING BTU/HR	AMPS	WATTS
6000	75	750
BTUs		WATTS

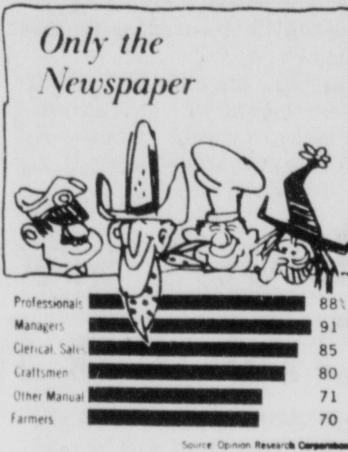

To get the EER, simply divide the BTUs by the watts. If you're comparing two 6,000 BTU models for efficiency, it would look like this:

1200/6000 BTUs = 2 EER
750/6000 BTUs = 0.125 EER

Our recommended energy efficiency ratio for an air conditioner is 8 or more, so the one with an EER of 8 is the one you should buy. Low efficiency units have EERs of around 5 or 6. You save money, too.

You've already found that the second example is the more efficient air conditioner. It will probably cost a little more to buy, but because it's more efficient, it would cost less to operate. In the long run, an efficient air conditioner helps keep electricity rates as low as possible. And right now, an efficient air conditioner helps conserve our country's natural resources.

The Doctor says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm 35. I first noticed enlarged veins in my left leg while pregnant with my second child. They disappeared following the birth. But now, a year later, they are noticeable again.

What preventative steps can be taken? Does diet and the amount or lack of exercise influence the veins? Can the enlarging process be halted at an early state? What information is available on surgery?

DEAR READER—If you stop and think about it you will observe that dilated veins occur in locations below the heart. That is why we have varicose veins, hemorrhoids and in men varicocele of the testicles. You don't see dilated veins in the head. The veins may dilate in the hands when you hold your hand down at your side, but they collapse if you hold your hand up in front of your face. Try it and you'll see.

The big factor in causing veins to dilate is the pressure inside the vein. This pressure is increased by gravity. When you stand up the column of blood from your foot to your heart represents a miniature water tower, and the pressure in the veins at the level of the ankle is markedly increased. When you lie down the column of blood is literally turned on its side, and the pressure inside the vein is greatly decreased.

When the walls of the veins are thin or not supported well by surrounding structures it is easier for them to dilate. Those under the skin where you can see them most easily have the least external support and are often the first affected.

Pregnancy increases pressure on the large veins in the lower abdomen. The pregnant uterus literally obstructs the normal flow of venous blood and is a form of a tourniquet on the veins. The increased pressure will often bring out varicose veins for the first time. If the veins are not too stretched there is a chance that after the pregnancy they will still have enough elasticity to return to near normal.

Dr. No-No's helpful hints on how to save natural gas & money:

"(Sniff.) Ummmm. A yum-yum, friends. But a no-no. Uncovered cookware and full burner settings waste heat. Keep the lid on to save gas and money. And a lower flame may improve your cooking."

A medium flame is better for most cooking on surface burners. More important, it takes less gas. And pot covers keep the heat in and cook foods faster. So cover up and help yourself to some savings. In gas for the future, and money for today.

Three-hits the Brewers

Catfish finally gets a victory

By HERSHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Catfish Hunter almost earned his $3 million in one fell swoop Sunday.

He came within four outs of pitching the New York Yankees' first no-hitter since Don Larsen's perfect game in the 1956 World Series, finally settling for a three-hit 10-1 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers in the second game of a doubleheader.

And it came just when the New York Yankees were starting to wonder whether the fellow they shelled out all that money for was the same pitcher who won 88 games in the last four years for the Oakland A's. He brought an 0-3 record and 7.36 earned run average into the game.

"I might have gotten more publicity by losing than winning," Hunter said. "I think it will settle down now."

Hunter had to share the spotlight with Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, whose two-run double in the Brewers' 7-0 victory in the opener enabled him to tie Babe Ruth at the top of the all-time RBI list with 2,209.

Hunter allowed Milwaukee only a third-inning walk and had retired 15 batters in a row when rookie Sixto Lezcano stroked a single between third and short with two out in the eighth.

Tim Johnson followed with a bloop single and Robin Yount homered with one out in the ninth, spoiling the million-dollar right-hander's shutout bid.

The Yankees backed Hunter with an 11-hit attack, including home runs by Herrmann and Elliott Maddox.

Milwaukee won the opener behind Pete Broberg's three-hitter. Aaron bounced a two-run double inside third base off reliever Dick Tidrow during a five-run uprising in the seventh inning, driving in runs No. 2,208 and 2,209 of his 22-year career to catch Ruth. However, the 41-year-old slugger went hitless in four trips against Hunter.

"He's a $3 million pitcher," Aaron said.

O'Brien preserves Sauk Valley win

By JIM FOX
Telegraph Sports Writer

SAUK VALLEY — John O'Brien extinguished a McHenry last-inning threat leading the Sauk Valley Redmen to a nail-biting 8-7 second-game victory over the Scotsmen in a non-conference double-header played, here, Saturday afternoon. McHenry captured the first contest 7-5.

Starting and winning Sauk Valley pitcher Jim Kenney breezed through the first five innings of the nightcap before he lost his aim at the plate. Kenney walked six batters in the sixth and seventh frames before Redmen coach Ron Hartje decided to call on O'Brien with two men on in the seventh inning. O'Brien responded with two strikeouts to get out of the jam and preserve a one-run Redmen decision.

McHenry hit Kenney for two runs on three hits in the first inning to take an early lead. Randy McNally led off with a sharp single to center and proceeded to steal second and third base, scoring on a clean single off the bat of Lee Frick. The second run crossed the plate on a Kenney wild pitch.

In the home team's half of the first, Sauk knotted the score as Craig Robinson, Gary Stewart, and Jerry Janssen each laced singles. Janssen's hit drove in the Redmen's first run and broke an 0-17 slump. Stewart raced home with Sauk's second run on a throwing error.

McHenry helped the Redmen push across two go-ahead runs in the third on a throwing error by shortstop McNally. Ellmaker scooted home on the error, one of seven for McHenry, and Janssen picked up his second RBI on an infield out.

Sauk pulled away with three runs in the fourth. Mike Dienslake and O'Brien opened the inning with back-to-back singles. Dienslake scored the Redmen's fifth run of the game on a wild pitch, while O'Brien scored on an error. Robinson plated Bruce Van De Velde with his second hit of the game giving Sauk a 7-2 lead. O'Brien squeezed Janssen in for Sauk's eighth run.

Kenney had a control problem's throughout the game as the big lefthander walked eight batters in six innings, but managed to wiggle out of his jams to gain his second win in as many outings. McHenry hit Kenney for three runs on just two hits in the sixth frame, highlighted by Bob Vitek's two-run single cutting Sauk's lead to 8-5. When Kenney walked the first two batters in the seventh O'Brien was given the nod. After back-to-back run scoring singles, O'Brien whiffed Vitek leaving the tying and go ahead runs in scoring position and handing Sauk its seventh win in 18 games.

Larry Hirschey hurled a complete game, picking up his first win of the season and breaking McHenry's 12-game losing streak as the Scotsmen edged Sauk 7-5 in the opener. The left hander fanned 13 Redmen while walking only four, displaying a curve and a change-up and keeping his seldom-used fast ball for the last two innings.

McHenry jumped on starting and losing pitcher Rico Wells in the first inning with two runs on a lone single. Scott's catcher Mike Philpot doubled home one run and an infield ground out, chased home another. McHenry iced the game with two runs apiece in the third and fourth innings. Chasing Wells from the mound.

Sauk put three runs on the score board in the first with the help of two McHenry infield errors and a run scoring double by Doug Mitchell.

The Redmen tried to pull the game out in the last of the seventh when, with one run in the tying run were left stranded on second and third base as Hirschey struck out Mitchell and Dienslake.

The twin-bill split sets the Redmen's record at 7-11 while their conference record remains at 2-4.

Sauk travels to Illinois Valley Monday to meet Spoon River in a nine inning sectional game.

Jim Palmer, continuing his comeback from major arm trouble, notched his third victory, stopping Cleveland on seven hits. Palmer, 7-12 last year after four consecutive 20-victory seasons, was supported by an 11-hit attack which included a solo home run by Ken Singleton.

"He's throwing the ball as good as he ever did," Manager Earl Weaver said of Palmer, who has an 0.78 earned run average, having given up only 22 hits and three earned runs in 342.3 innings while winning three of four decisions.

California's Bruce Bochte drove in three runs with a homer and double in the nightcap and then was hit in the head by a pitch, triggering a sixth-inning melee. The A's took the opener 7-1 as Vida Blue fired a five-hitter and became the first five-game winner in the American League. He has lost once.

Bochte was struck on the helmet by a pitch from reliever Jim Todd after the Angels scored four runs in the sixth, boosting their lead to 9-1. When Bochte slumped at the plate, California Manager Dick Williams, the former Oakland skipper, charged from the dugout and began throwing punches in Todd's direction.

Jim Kaat, with seventh-inning help from Rich Gossage, won his 10th straight game over a two-year period as Chicago ripped three Kansas City pitchers for 17 hits. Kaat, 3-0, and Gossage allowed six hits, including home runs by Harmon Killebrew and Buck Martinez.

Trailing 3-2, the White Sox broke loose against Bruce Dal Canton for three runs in the third inning on a walk and sin-

"I was a third baseman in junior college and I got off to a bad start in my coach's opinion," said Apodaca after turning in three hitless innings Sunday to preserve New York's 7-6 victory over the Montreal Expos.

"He said, 'You can't hit, you can't run and you can't field. And if that doesn't sound like a pitcher, then I don't know what is.'"

"I didn't agree with it," added Apodaca, "but when I got to college I could see my limitations as an infielder and I didn't think I could hit well enough to make the majors, so I concentrated on pitching."

Apodaca's stint Sunday earned him his second save as many outings as the Mets ran their win streak to six games.

Willie Crawford and Lee Lacy drove in three runs apiece for Los Angeles to back the six-hit pitching of Don Sutton who won for the 16th time in 17 decisions dating back to last season and including playoff and World Series games.

SAUK VALLEY — John O'Brien extinguished a McHenry last-inning threat leading the Sauk Valley Redmen to a nail-biting 8-7 second-game victory over the Scotsmen in a non-conference double-header played, here, Saturday afternoon. McHenry captured the first contest 7-5.

Starting and winning Sauk Valley pitcher Jim Kenney breezed through the first five innings of the nightcap before he lost his aim at the plate. Kenney walked six batters in the sixth and seventh frames before Redmen coach Ron Hartje decided to call on O'Brien with two men on in the seventh inning. O'Brien responded with two strikeouts to get out of the jam and preserve a one-run Redmen decision.

McHenry hit Kenney for two runs on three hits in the first inning to take an early lead. Randy McNally led off with a sharp single to center and proceeded to steal second and third base, scoring on a clean single off the bat of Lee Frick. The second run crossed the plate on a Kenney wild pitch.

In the home team's half of the first, Sauk knotted the score as Craig Robinson, Gary Stewart, and Jerry Janssen each laced singles. Janssen's hit drove in the Redmen's first run and broke an 0-17 slump. Stewart raced home with Sauk's second run on a throwing error.

McHenry helped the Redmen push across two go-ahead runs in the third on a throwing error by shortstop McNally. Ellmaker scooted home on the error, one of seven for McHenry, and Janssen picked up his second RBI on an infield out.

Sauk pulled away with three runs in the fourth. Mike Dienslake and O'Brien opened the inning with back-to-back singles. Dienslake scored the Redmen's fifth run of the game on a wild pitch, while O'Brien scored on an error. Robinson plated Bruce Van De Velde with his second hit of the game giving Sauk a 7-2 lead. O'Brien squeezed Janssen in for Sauk's eighth run.

OUT OF VIETNAM—Eddie Dixon and his wife, Doaz Tran, with their three children and her brother, talk with reporters at Travis Air Force Base in California after their evacuation from Vietnam. Dixon, en route to Knoxville, Tenn., said he wanted to get his family out of the war-torn country even though he had to leave belongings worth about $50,000 behind. (AP Wirephoto)

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D-643: Thom Reeves is the Director of a Mental Health Center at Danville, Illinois.

Its budget runs over $200,000 per year, of which a little over one per cent ($2,500) came from the United Fund.

Its average case load at any time runs about 1,000.

The patients range in age from 3 to 75 years.

"If all people used common sense all the time," he added, "guys like me would be out of jobs."

"In addition to helping a person solve an immediate problem, the therapy teaches a problem-solving technique for future troubles."

And that is the basic theme which this "Worry Clinic" column has been stressing for the past generation!

Which is why hundreds of newspapers launched this clinical column in practical psychiatry.

For you readers thus get the standard problem-solving techniques herein, all 313 week days of the year!

And you don't need to tap the United Fund or the taxpayers to do so!

"This 'Worry Clinic' has always stressed the motto of Confucius, who wisely warned:

"If you give a hungry man a fish, you feed him for one day.

"But if you teach him how to fish, you feed him for 100 years!"

Herein I have thus shown you how to tell the difference between mere sexual charisma vs. true love.

And how to diagnose the underlying reasons why husbands after the age of 40, often become unduly caustic, hypercritical of you wives and likely to flee into alcoholism to camouflage their platonic terror.

You wives also learn how to prepare more enticing boudoir cheesecake to hold your mates against the wiles of outside paramours.

And you are told the safe, drugless method of slenderizing your figures, as by the 10-day dehydration diet.

Teen-agers are informed about how to study more efficiently, as well as how to win friends easily via the "Compliment Club" technique.

You also are given the H-E-L-P formula for preventing those embarrassing pauses in conversation when on a date.

You learn how to write a top-notch letter of application for a job.

And why the firstborn child tends to be an introvert whereas the middle child is the usual extrovert.

You learn the famous "Yes, but—" sales strategy, too, and can avail yourself of several scientific Rating Scales, both for sweethearts, parents, teachers and employers.

Into this daily column I have thus been pouring the psychology of all the practical university courses I taught at Northwestern and George Washington Universities, plus my two college textbooks!

For my stress has always been on "Horse Sense" rather than the usual Harvard "brain-truster" type of bookish theories.

That's why thousands of clergymen and Mental Health Directors have already used the Rating Scales offered via this newspaper.

So please salute your editor for operating this effective "University in Print," for newspapers are the most practical educational agency in the land.

"The 'Worry Clinic' has thus been giving you 'Applied Psychology' for all members of your family by which to solve all problems you encounter.

It offers a "do-it-yourself" prescription that saves the taxpayers millions of dollars otherwise required for divorce courts, juvenile courts, etc.
